

FARHAN WARSI

Farhan Warsi is a dedicated fourth year student at York University who will be receiving his Bachelor of Administrative Studies in the Accounting stream. He will be graduating in 2012 and is keen to apply his skills and accounting experience to further his interest in pursuing a CA designation. Farhan is involved with the Professional Accounting Association and spends much of his time volunteering for non-profit organizations. Between school and his extra-curricular activities, he likes to read, socialize, and travel. He embraces new cultures and loves meeting new people.

Advice you'd give students fresh into of university?

Stay involved, give back to the community, and join a cause you are passionate about. Extra-curricular activities don't have to stop at university. Continue to volunteer and be a mentor to those students who are just as nervous as you were when you were once in their shoes.

Ultimate career and life goal?

I want to bring together the experiences I've gained through my education. I have a desire to bring forward a global perspective that I have developed through residing in many different parts of the world. With this, I hope to one day make a difference in a cause that I believe in and wish to motivate others to do the same.

"The best thing you can do is the right thing; the next best thing you can do is the wrong thing; the worst thing you can do is nothing." -Theodore Roosevelt
